Greetings:
I'm new to FC and AC, so please ignore this item if ECAC isn't the appropriate avenue. I've read recently about some universities banning the use of laptops in class, and have begun to wonder about developing a similar policy at MSU. My particular concern is the recording capacity of laptops and handheld devices. What would keep a student from posting class activities to the internet, perhaps with the intention of mocking the instructor or fellow students? This could have the effect of stifling robust class discussion.

Thank you for considering this request.

Chris Frilingos