
This article raises a number of serious, world-wide concerns about how human health is potentially impacted by climate change.

Select one of the categories of concern (e.g., water, nutrition, diseases, displacement).

Your goal is to find a local (i.e., Michigan or the surrounding states) example of how human health could be affected due to one of these concerns.

1. Search the literature for a paper or article that addresses a local example of one of these concerns. Use any search engine such as Google scholar.

   In a word processed document:

2. Provide the full citation for your source.

3. Explain how your example related to one (or more) of the concerns in Myers and Bernstein – 3 or 4 sentences.
