During the course of one night Finbar's Hotel is about to be visited by a bewildering array of guests.

Edited and conceived by Dermot Bolger and written by seven of Ireland's leading novelists, builds into an extraordinary interwoven work of fiction, pulsating with humour, vitality and suspense - not least the unsolved puzzle of which author actually wrote each chapter.
What an interesting book this is, teeming with the best of Irish humor for all tastes. It should be enjoyed by everyone.” — Irish Book World

A year has passed since the closing of Finbar's Hotel, a down-on-its-heels hotel on the Dublin quays. Now it has reopened its doors—as an ultra-chic Euro hotel. Ladies' Night describes, with inimitable Irish wit, one night in its newly illustrious surroundings. In one room a man surreptitiously helps his wife's friend get pregnant, while next door a businesswoman battles her father. And down the hall, a nun struggles with the most important mission of her life. A spirited mix of pathos and humor, this is a tour of the human experience, told with panache by Ireland's finest modern storytellers.

"Funny and poignant." — The Daily Mirror
