Preparing a document like this is always much more of a journey than one thinks, and the end result is an album which represents the knowledge, insight and support collected from those who helped along the way. First, the C.S. Mott Foundation gave the support to make this trip possible at all by funding the Great Lakes Forestry and Biodiversity Project as part of ongoing support of the Great Lakes Federal Policy Program funded through the Sierra Club Foundation. Support from the Sierra Club Mackinac Chapter leadership and the Great Lakes Program of the Sierra Club was also critical. Providing both way stations and refueling were Alison Horton and Lisa Wickman, Mackinac Chapter staff who provided support and tolerance for their director; and Tom, Nate and Pete Woiwode who endured many nights and weekends of word processing and angst. Contributing one road map in the way of an excellent analysis of state statutes in the three Northwoods states was Beverly Speers. Extraordinary technical skill in tuning and adjustments came from Kathy Mitchell, who edited, laid out and produced the report. And contributing to all of these categories, as well as providing inspiration of the original task, were Carl Zichella and Marvin J. Roberson, Jr.

Thank you all.
