Australia - The Land of Contrast

Captivating, breathtaking, dynamic and different – the land “down under” has sparked the imagination of navigators, explorers and adventurers for centuries. Now, you can experience the excitement and wonder of Australia through a four-week study abroad program.

The program runs from May 15 to June 12, featuring an interdisciplinary exploration of social, food/agriculture, and environment systems within the region. Special emphasis is placed on how humans interact with their built and natural environments and how these interactions have affected the region. You will visit farms, agri-wildlife sanctuaries, national parks, as selected and cultural-historical sites. You will also have opportunity to work with international professionals and peers in a hands-on experiential environment.

At the conclusion of the program, many students choose to travel to other parts of Australia, New Zealand, or perhaps visit Hawaii on their journey home (at their own expense).

Captivating, breathtaking, dynamic and different – the land “down under” has sparked the imagination of navigators, explorers and adventurers for centuries. Now, you can experience the excitement and wonder of Australia through a four-week study abroad program.

The program runs from May 15 to June 12, featuring an interdisciplinary exploration of social, food/agriculture, and environment systems within the region. Special emphasis is placed on how humans interact with their built and natural environments and how these interactions have affected the region. You will visit farms, agri-wildlife sanctuaries, national parks, as selected and cultural-historical sites. You will also have opportunity to work with international professionals and peers in a hands-on experiential environment.

At the conclusion of the program, many students choose to travel to other parts of Australia, New Zealand, or perhaps visit Hawaii on their journey home (at their own expense).

Continued on Page 2
ent - the land "down under" has sparked the imagination of navigators, explorers and adventurers for centuries. Now, you can experience the excitement and wonder of Australia through a four-week study abroad program.

The program runs from May 15 to June 12, featuring an interdisciplinary exploration of social, food/agriculture, and environment systems within the region. Special emphasis is placed on how humans interact with their built and natural environments and how these interactions have affected the region. You will visit farms, agribusinesses, wildlife sanctuaries, and national parks, as well as selected cultural and historical sites. You will also have the opportunity to work with international professionals and peers in a hands-on experiential environment.

At the conclusion of the program, many students choose to travel to other parts of Australia, New Zealand, or perhaps visit Hawaii on their journey home (at their own expense).