Sophomore Jay Goldsmith and senior Cody Allen's band, Nurse Remington, performs for the lunch crowd on Monday during the week of homecoming (clockwise from the top). After running from Holly to Fenton, senior Bobby Schumaker represents the cross country team as he hands the football to varsity football co-captain, senior Josh Holmes. At the pep assembly, the varsity cheerleading squad performs its dance routine to a mix of songs. Photos by Natasha Schmult and Pam Bunka.

SOPHOMORES DOMINATE. Imagination, brains and garbage bags helped create the class floats that traveled the parade route and were displayed at the football game. "I was excited when the sophomore float won," sophomore Kelly Godmar said. "I worked on it for about eight hours. It was a lot of fun because I got to socialize while doing something that I like to do." The end of the competition brought the junior class, who spent about 30 hours on their float, into second place. With the freshman spending around 40 hours on their float, they came in fourth place. The seniors' previous sweep of winning two consecutive years ended as they came in third. Both the seniors and the sophomores spent about 40 hours preparing on their floats. Photo by Pam Bunka.
“I think that spirit week was cool,” freshman Abby Hamilton said. “I did not enjoy Pajama Day because someone was running down the hallway and ripped my slipper. That ruined my day. My favorite day was Orange and Black Day. For my first pep rally I thought it was really interesting and a lot of fun. I liked how the teams came out in the gym and the captains said a few words. The atmosphere was very chaotic, but overall, it was fun and exciting, and ended too soon.” Photo by Martha Brooks

“My favorite day was the 50s Day theme.” senior Elise LaFever said. “I really think that the classes should have gotten the guys more involved. It seems that the older you get, the less you seem to get into the Homecoming week, like the parade, game, and all the other festivities. It kind of wears out after a while. But Powder Puff was a lot of fun, and I’m really glad I chose to participate in that. I’m so glad we didn’t lose; that made all of the junior players really happy, and hyped them up for next year.” Photo by Martha Brooks

“The senior class did okay for spirit week,” junior Daniele Hamblet said. “I really think that we should have gotten our class more involved. It seems like everyone looks forward to the pep rally all week. I thought that the pep rally got everyone excited for the game and the parade. The parade and game festivities were a good conclusion for the week.” Photo by Martha Brooks

Monday

Without even a glance toward the closet on the first spirit day, some students were able to come to school in their nightclothes. “Pajama Day was my favorite because PJs are comfortable,” junior Chris Wheeler said. “I’m happy if I can wear pajamas to school anytime.”

Tuesday

Clad in personalized team shirts, the senior girls battled the juniors during Powder Puff. The 50 minute game ended with a score of 0-0. “I think it was a fun game,” senior Amanda Sanders said. “I was happy that we tied because we didn’t lose and it never happened before.”

Wednesday

The senior class took advantage of the half day caused by parent-teacher conferences to work on their float. “Alison Keller did all the touch ups and showed us what we should do,” senior Danielle Habitz said. “I participated in construction for 20 minutes but then had nothing to do.”

Thursday

Parent-teacher conferences gave students another half day. For three hours, the hallways crawled with students wearing inside-out and mismatched clothes. By the middle of the week, the sophomores lead the spirit day competition with the seniors in last with less than 50% participation.

Friday

In order to accommodate the pep assembly, block 6B was moved to the end of the day. Despite the rain, the parade was held downtown at 5 p.m. The varsity football team defeated the Holly Bronchos by 49-6, being the highest score, of four total wins and five losses, of the season.