Community & Economic Development AWARD PROGRAM
2004:
Michigan State University
MSU-EDA University Center

The Michigan State University Community & Economic Development Program (CEDP) invites nominations for the 2004 Community and Economic Development Award. This award is presented each year by the Michigan State University Economic Development Administration University Center (MSU-EDA University Center), a project of the Community and Economic Development Program. Interested applicants are encouraged to submit a nomination for consideration.

Since 1996, Michigan State University Economic Development Administration University Center (MSU-EDA University Center) has presented the Community and Economic Development award for notable achievement in community and economic development. The purpose of the award is to recognize excellence in action and scholarship in community and economic development in Michigan.

Eligible applicants include practitioners in community settings at any level, as well as students, faculty and research staffs of Michigan colleges, universities, and research institutes. Self-nomination is permitted.

- Academic Scholarship, dealing with research that contributes to a new understanding of theory or practice in a given field of community or economic development; and
- Best Practice, designed to recognize practitioners who are doing innovative and effective community development work in distressed areas.

To be considered for the award, an applicant may complete the nomination form and return it to the MSU Community & Economic Development Program, along with supporting documents that describe and document the quality of the nominated work. Such support might consist of research findings (please include brief abstract), program descriptions, promotional brochures, press coverage, or similar material sufficient to serve as a basis for evaluating the activity on its merits.

The deadline for nominations for the 2004 award will be May 4, 2004.

The MSU Community and Economic Development Program's Faculty Board of Advisors will review the nominations and will confer the Award at the 2004 Summer Institute conference.

For More Information:
Michigan State University Economic Development Administration Center
1801 W. Main St.
Lansing, MI 48915
Phone: (517)353-9555
FAX: (517)484-0068
http://www.msu.edu/~cua
2004 Community and Economic Development Award Nomination Form

Category of Nomination (check one):

Academic Scholarship _____ Best Practice _____

Name of Nominated Organization or Project:

______________________________________________________________________

Name(s) of Nominee(s): Name of Nominator (if different):

_________________________                    _____________________________

_________________________

Nominee Contact Information: (Nominator Contact Information)

Address ________________________            _______________________________

_______________________________            _______________________________

City/ST/ZIP _____________________            _______________________________

Phone _____________________________                _______________________________

Email _____________________________                _______________________________

Brief Description of Nominated Work:

_________________________________________________________________________

_________________________________________________________________________

_________________________________________________________________________

_________________________________________________________________________

Mail completed form and supporting documents to:
CED Award
MSU Community & Economic Development Program
1801 W. Main St.
Lansing, MI 48915