Thanks for volunteering to help at the East Lansing Film Festival.

Here’s what you might need to know:
Volunteering for the film festival basically involves three kinds of jobs:
   Selling tickets,
   taking tickets,
   and selling food.
To sell tickets you have to be able to handle money and not get bugged when people are waiting in line at your table.
Taking tickets is just that, and usually you get to see the film you’re ushering for.
Selling food is mostly hanging out in a pleasant place with people who stop in and cleaning up coffee cups and muffin papers.
A fourth job, setup/takedown, involves moving all the furniture and equipment we need, then moving it all out again when the festival ends.
In addition I need some “floaters” to do what needs to be done when trouble strikes, and some projectionists’ aides.
