At some point in time in your life, you will probably want a photo to use online—on a web site, in a biography statement, for an IM icon, within a personal or professional portfolio.

That said, your goal for this activity is to prepare a photograph of yourself for a web space.

Start with either a scanned photograph or an already digitized photograph—or a sketch or stick figure.

It’s up to you to decide how you want to prepare it.

• ...by filtering the entire image.
• ...by filtering portions of the image.
• ...by creating a graphical "frame" around the image.
• ...or by applying some other effect entirely.

BEFORE you get started, you might want to take a look at how others have prepared their online photographs, such as the photos of:

Molly Holzschlag
http://www.molly.com/

Cameron Moll
http://www.cameronmoll.com/

Chris Chen
http://members.shaw.ca/chris_chen/portfolio.html

Danielle Nicole DeVoss
http://www.msu.edu/~wrac/faculty_staff/devoss.html

Paul MacMartin
http://www.paulmacmartin.com/

Jeffrey Veen
http://www.veen.com/jeff/index.html

Andreas Karatsolis
http://www.rpi.edu/%7Ekarata/