Michigan Osteopathic Association (MOA), in conjunction with the Michigan State University Institute of International Health (MSU IIH), are offering a lecture on Oriental Medicine and OMM at the Kellogg Hotel and Conference Center in East Lansing on Wednesday, July 29, 2015, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Korean physician Joon-shik Shin, PhD, K.M.D. (Korean Medicine Doctor), Founder and Chairperson of Jaseng Hospital and Foundation will speak on Korean traditional medicine, specializing in spine disorder, joint and shoulder with using manual medicine, acupuncture, and herbal medicine. Jaseng has developed Motion Style Acupuncture Treatment (MSAT), which published its clinical experiment on effectiveness of MSAT in treating acute back pain in PAIN Magazine (V. 154, Issue 7, July 2013, pp. 1030-1037).

Jaseng Hospital of Korean Medicine has 17 hospitals in Korea and seven clinics in the United States of America. In 2013, Dr. Shin’s treatment was introduced to American Osteopathic Association members during OMED 2013. Dr. Shin would like to share his treatment using acupuncture, MSAT, its background and hands-on experiences with osteopathic physicians.

Mary Goldman, D.O. will demonstrate techniques in Osteopathic Manipulative Medicine (OMM), a specialized medical technique developed by osteopathic physicians for hands-on diagnosis, treatment and prevention of illness and injuries. Manual force is focused on the body’s affected areas following a complete structural exam by your osteopathic physician. The treatment is used to relieve joint restrictions and misalignment. While manipulative medicine can be used to relieve back pain, it can also be used to reduce discomfort from asthma, carpal tunnel syndrome, menstrual pain, sinus disorders and migraines.
