The “Onion” model of sentence meaning. Interpretation happens in a single moment, but it has regular and persistent layers of fixed content that merge in the act of interpretation but can be separated theoretically.

S: “I am cold.”